

Virtual Excel Training

Making data. Simple.

Increase learning effectiveness, engage teams and achieve new levels of efficiency and productivity with our virtual Excel training courses.

We're more than just your average training team, we make certain that every individual enhances their knowledge in every one of our sessions. We're committed to making our clients' lives as easy as possible, and our virtual training courses do just that, saving you the hassle, and expense, of arranging a venue and transport for your team. All course delegates are provided with an interactive learning experience, in which they can ask real-time questions, all from the comfort of their home office or work location.

Virtual training is a great opportunity for companies to upskill staff and maximise any downtime, as well as having the added benefits of; no expense costs, quicker deployment and access to the recorded course content following the session.

Available training courses

Skill-based

We provide Excel training for all skill levels, from Introductory to Intermediate and Advanced. Our courses are designed to walk delegates through various Excel issues and solutions, leaving them much more confident and consequently, productive, when using Excel – plus, all of our delegates receive CPD accreditation following each training course.

Custom training

Unlike our skilled-based training, in which we focus on theoretical solutions and common problems, our custom training course is built around you; our team assesses your own live working documents, and create course content around specific use cases. This ensures that our certified Excel trainers can help break down the walls you have been hitting and give you specifics on how to get precisely what you want from the program.

We'll leave you with not only a whole new set of skills, but a new way of thinking about Excel, so you can keep using it with confidence at an advanced level.

Each training course is limited to 10 delegates, so that each person has the best possible learning experience.
